

Mia Mastroianni

With over ten years of experience in the service industry from Boston to Miami, Mia Mastroianni became one of the founding bartenders of Soho House West Hollywood – the private members-only club where she remains a well-respected and oft-requested mixologist for the who's who of Hollywood.

Known for her tall figure and sassy fun attitude, “Tall Mia” has also opened Soho House locations in Miami Beach, FL and in Toronto, Canada - training their respective bar staffs on giving the highest quality of service, implementing proper technique, and executing incredible cocktails.

A familiar face in competitions of the bartender elite, in 2012 she won the Speed Rack competition for fastest bartender with the tastiest drinks for all of Southern California and has competed for the national title among the top contenders in New York twice.

Her expertise led her to be cast as an expert mixologist on Spike/Paramount Network’s highly rated TV show "Bar Rescue" for the last several seasons. Working directly with host Jon Taffer, she has assisted in the rescuing of numerous bars across America, from Philadelphia, PA to Norwalk, CA. She also frequently gives her thoughts on "Bar Rescue" episodes on the popular podcast "AfterBuzz TV", produced by Maria Menounos and Keven Undergaro.

In addition to Bar Rescue, her television presence includes cocktail segments on "Morning Buzz Live with Nick Lachey" for the VH1 Network and The FABlife with Chrissy Teigen on ABC. Mia has also appeared on the cover of Bar Business Magazine, has been a featured bartender on numerous websites and also had fun being a part of the viral Youtube hit "Shit People Say To Bartenders”.

Mia stays current with industry and consumer trends by attending and speaking at various seminars, conferences and food festivals, and continues her education with spirits and distillation by traveling and exploring different countries, learning about their traditions and visiting distilleries. Mia’s also been a bar consultant on various feature films, regularly consults on new bar programs and has partnered with several national brands.
